ATHENA CONSTRUCTION GROUP FEATURED IN ADP NATIONAL AD CAMPAIGN

When it's not enough to restore historic homes what's a girl to do? Simple -restore a 1970 VW bus. Or so the story starts when Amber Peebles, President of Athena Construction Group was approached by national payroll processing company ADP.

"I was contacted by ADP regarding their new national ad campaign. The question that was posed to me was what do you do when you are not working? So I told them about my hobbies and I told them about my bus. ADP really liked the sound of it and flew a nationally recognized photographer, Chris Wimpy, who has done work for Harley Davidson and Lexus to do the shoot. We had a great time and I am please that this VW bus, a fine example of automotive engineering, has been memorialized in this shot."
